Nancy McKinstry, CEO and Chairman of the Executive Board, commented on the company’s third-quarter trading update:

“I am encouraged with the company’s performance in the third quarter. Challenging global economic circumstances highlight the importance of our customer relationships, strong brands, and resilient subscription base that ensure stability in the company’s results.

In the third quarter, the company delivered solid performance across the business, and we continued to grow our subscription base through increased penetration of on-line and software solutions.

I remain confident in the growing strength of the portfolio. Our continued investment in market segments and geographies that offer the strongest potential for future returns supports our ability to deliver long-term profitable growth.”

Third-Quarter Developments

In the third quarter, the company saw solid performance across the business, with levels of growth that were consistent with the first half year. Subscriptions, which represent approximately 75% of total revenues continued to grow, underpinned by stable retention rates and the continued growth of online and software solutions. This positive trend highlights the overall resilience of the company’s portfolio.

Trading conditions have remained mostly in line with the prior six months. Recent economic concerns have reinforced conservative spending patterns for new products, particularly in the European Legal & Regulatory markets. While cyclical revenues continued to grow, the rate of growth began to level-off in the third quarter, with transactional volumes related to corporate activity and lending slowing relative to the accelerated growth seen over the last 18 months. Book sales, training, and transport transaction volumes also experienced increased pressure.

The Health & Pharma Solutions division continued to perform well, with strong growth at Clinical Solutions and Ovid driving margin expansion. Within the Tax & Accounting division, software sales remain strong. In addition, the shift of bank product revenue to the second half year is also proceeding as expected. Financial & Compliance Services continued to see solid growth in overall revenue, fueled by international expansion initiatives related to the FRSGlobal acquisition in 2010 and strong performance from audit, risk, and ARC Logics product lines. This result is tempered by slowing transactional volumes in banking and transport services volumes experienced in the third quarter. In the Legal & Regulatory division, overall revenue declined slightly with growth in electronic revenues offset by print attrition and lower book sales. Solid growth at Corporate Legal Services continues despite lower transactional volumes for M&A and IPO activity, which declined in the third quarter in terms of the number of transactions and average deal value.

Operating margins and free cash flow in the third quarter remain in line with expectations and guidance for the full year.

Key Programs

In a separate press release distributed this morning, the company announced the signing of a definitive agreement to sell its pharma promotional business, Marketing & Publishing Services (MPS), to Springer. This sale represents approximately 35% of the company’s pharma-related assets in terms of revenue and encompasses 450 employees globally. The proceeds from this divestment are expected to be used for general corporate purposes including the reduction of debt levels in line with the company’s stated objectives. The transaction is subject to customary closing conditions, including regulatory approvals.

In September, the company completed the acquisition of National Registered Agents, Inc. (NRAI) which was initially announced on June 14. Through this acquisition, Wolters Kluwer Corporate Legal Services strengthens its position as a leading provider of legal compliance and corporate governance solutions.

The Springboard operational excellence program is on track in the third quarter to exceed its targeted run rate cost savings of €170-180 million by the end of the year. Based on the continued success of the program, run rate savings estimates for the program are being raised to €205-210 million with associated exceptional, non-recurring costs of €99-109 million expected for the year. The Springboard program will end in 2011 and is designed to reduce structural costs.

Despite increased macro economic uncertainty, the company is on track to deliver within its full-year guidance for the total company. With the peak subscription renewal season underway, the subscription portfolio, which constitutes 75% of total revenues, is expected to continue to be resilient. Improving results in software solutions are expected to offset challenges in transactional product lines and print publishing.

As highlighted in the half-year 2011 results press release, the contribution from the discontinuing operations is expected to have the following impact on full-year pro-forma results for the continuing operations: improved ordinary EBITA margin of approximately 100 basis points and reduced diluted ordinary EPS and free cash flow of approximately 2-3% and 3%, respectively. Guidance and full-year reporting will focus on continuing operations.

Ordinary EBITA margin for continuing operations is expected to improve with results between 21.5% and 22% for the full year underpinned by the migration of customers to more profitable electronic products and the continuing contribution of the Springboard program. These efforts are expected to offset pressure from wage and other inflationary expenditures. As in prior years, management will continue to invest approximately 8-10% of revenues in new products and platforms to drive future growth.

Free cash flow in constant currencies is expected to be approximately €412 million for the year for continuing operations. Diluted ordinary earnings per share is expected to be between €1.46 and €1.51 in constant currencies.
